

60: Radio Spot,
Lely Vector automated feeding system

The new milestone in feeding is here! Lely North America has introduced the improved Lely Vector automated feeding system.

The Lely Vector keeps fresh feed available to cows. The mixing and feeding robot measures the feed height of a specific section to determine when the ration needs to be supplemented, so there is never too much or too little feed at the feed fence.

More than 500 livestock farmers worldwide feed their herds with a Lely Vector automated feeding system – saving time and providing greater feed intake.

Now the system is now even more focused on improving animal health by providing fresh feed. A better distribution of the knives and the constant rotational speed of the auger means the ration is consistently mixed and balanced.

The newest Lely Vector features more durable components, such as stainless steel for the mixing bin and auger and increased reliability. Lely engineers have designed the drive and electrical components to be more accessible for easier maintenance.

To learn more about the updated Lely Vector automated feeding system, contact [insert dealer name], located in [city name] at [phone number or email or website].

30: Radio Spot,
Lely Vector automated feeding system

The new milestone in feeding is here! Lely North America has introduced the improved Lely Vector automated feeding system.

The Lely Vector keeps fresh feed available to cows. The mixing and feeding robot measures the feed height of a specific section to determine when the ration needs to be supplemented, so there is never too much or too little feed at the feed fence.

The new Vector features more durable components such as stainless steel for the mixing bin and auger, and a better distribution of the knives with the constant rotational speed of the auger means the ration is consistently mixed and balanced. Lely engineers have designed the drive and electrical components to be more accessible for easier maintenance.

To learn more about the updated Lely Vector automated feeding system, contact [insert dealer name], located in [city name] at [phone number or email or website].